Description

Product description The Browning B525 Sporter Laminated Adjustable is a very nice addition to the B525 series and its adjustable cheekpiece and adjustable butt pad with Inflex II recoil damping this over-and-under can be perfectly adjusted to suit your own shooting position, which will be interesting for a lot of hunters and sport shooters. The stock of the Browning B525 Sporter Laminated Adjustable is laminated and besides the aesthetic effect this also gives the stock a firm stiffness and uniformity in density. The satin finish provides a fitting top layer that prevents glare. The barrel is back bored which means the diameter is enlarged compared to a standard bore. This will provide less friction to the wad that in effect will gain more speed and the extra space also means less shot is being deformed. All this results in a more consistent and more compact shot pattern i.e. a higher accuracy. As a side-effect, recoil is also reduced. The Browning B525 Sporter Laminated Adjustable is suitable for steel shot and for the sport shooter it's good to know the top rib is ventilated.
